Foreword

THE THEME of the 1936 issue of the BOBASHELA is “a sound mind in a sound body.” Even a casual perusal of the book will convince one that our choice is apt, for here is evidence that the program of the Trenton Central High School places equal emphasis on the development of mind and body.

Miss Harriet L. Wieand

Dedication

The Class of 1936 dedicates this yearbook to Miss Harriet L. Wieand, whose twenty-seven years of service as a nurse in the Trenton schools have inspired its theme.

Miss Wieand possesses those two qualities so essential to a nurse—efficiency and cheerfulness. The pupil in distress who goes to her comes away not only relieved of his aches and pains but also buoyed up in spirit.

The seniors, particularly, possess a warm feeling for Miss Wieand because she has for many years accompanied them on their annual trip to Washington, protecting them from the “snares and pitfalls” of the Nation’s Capital, while giving them at the same time ample freedom to enjoy themselves thoroughly.

Views . . . "The beautiful rests on the foundations of the necessary."—EMERSON.

IN THE construction of the Trenton Central High School the architects designed not one building, but four. The central building is devoted to the commercial, the social science, and the art departments. The right wing is given over to mathematics and science; and the left, to languages. The building in the rear houses the shops and gymnasiums. Such centralization of departments is conducive to efficiency and convenience. The low buildings which necessitate little climbing of stairs, the spacious corridors, the well-lighted and well-ventilated class rooms, and the huge gymnasiums indicate that what the designers had in mind primarily was the health of the pupils.

Administration . . . "Reason is the life of the law."
—SIR EDWARD COKE.

A HEALTHY ADMINISTRATION implies co-operation. When we consider the efficient government of the Trenton Central High School, we realize that it is due to the harmony that exists between the School Board and the superintendent, the high school principal, his vice-principals, and the faculty. The School Board decides the policy of the school system. Much depends, however, upon the wisdom of the superintendent, who interprets the laws devised by the Board. The principal, the vice-principals, and the faculty are responsible for the application of the laws to the school. The spirit of cooperation of our pupils is merely a reflection of the spirit of their administrators.

Paul Loser

ONE OF the many interests which our superintendent has in common with us is a love of sports. Mr. Loser, a frequent spectator at our athletic contests, was particularly active in athletics at Muhlenberg College, where he played football, baseball, and basketball. When he became a member of the faculty of the Trenton High School, he assumed the responsibility of coaching football and baseball, in addition to performing his regular duties as teacher of mathematics. The only state championship football team produced by Trenton High was developed under Mr. Loser's leadership.

"PRINCIPAL'S OFFICE—COME IN." What could be more typical of Dr. Spencer's attitude towards the students of the Trenton Central High School than this sign, conspicuously placed outside his office? He has from the first encouraged our friendship. His busy schedule may always be altered to make time for student conferences. This helps to break down the barrier that frequently exists between pupil and administrator. Dr. Spencer has great faith in the intelligence of the pupils of our school, and demonstrates this trust by advocating the expansion of pupil participation in school government.

Vice-Principals

AS LONG as there are students with problems to be solved, curricula to be planned, and activities to be put into operation, so long will there be the need of administrators. In the Trenton Central High School three vice-principals are necessary to aid Dr. Spencer in the administration of the school. Edward G. Leefeldt prepares the extensive curricular program; Miss Bertha Lawrence has charge of the extra-curricular activities (the supervision of clubs, of Auditorium programs, of school publications, etc.); and William J. O'Brien undertakes the guidance of some 3,700 students.

MISS SARA T. POLLOCK

ELLARD A. BUCK

MISS CARRIE BUTZ

Faculty Changes

During the past two years, eight members of the Trenton Central High School faculty have resigned, either to enjoy a life of well-earned leisure or to enter some field of endeavor other than that of public school teaching.

Miss Harriet Day, who retired in 1935, was, for twenty-five years, one of the outstanding members of the English department. Seniors were particularly grateful to Miss Day for the splendid background they obtained in English and American literature, a background which, in addition to being valuable in itself, helped those who were taking College Board examinations to pass with ease.

O. J. Oswald, whose health necessitated his retirement in February of 1935, taught in the Trenton High School for twenty-eight years. He was especially qualified to teach languages because of his extensive study at Albright, Lafayette, Cornell, the University of Pennsylvania, and New York University, as well as at Leipzig and Marburg in Germany. While a member of the Trenton High School faculty, Mr. Oswald served on occasion as assistant to the principal, school treasurer, and faculty adviser of the Bobashela. That pupils enjoyed his company is attested by the fact that he attended the first senior trip to Washington and every trip thereafter until he retired.

Six members of the faculty have resigned this year.

Miss Sara T. Pollock, retiring after teaching for eighteen years in the Trenton High School, is opening a private business school in the autumn. As a member of the faculty, she did not limit her activities to those of the classroom, but devoted herself also to extra-curricular work. The present Commerce Club is an outgrowth of the Junior Commerce Club which Miss Pollock organized. She was also organizer and for many years sponsor of the Amanuensis Club.

Ellard A. Buck has taught chemistry and physics in the Trenton High School for thirty-four years. In the old days, Mr. Buck not only taught science but also coached all the athletic teams: baseball, football, basketball, and track. In honor of Mr. Buck and the interest he has fostered in athletics there is awarded to the class winning the most points on Field Day the Ellard A. Buck trophy.

MISS GRACE M. BRAUNINGER

IRVING B. HUNTER

MISS BERTHA LAWRENCE

Faculty Changes

Miss Carrie Butz joined the Trenton High School faculty as a teacher of German in 1915. The following year she taught German and mathematics. During the World War, German was no longer included in the Trenton High School curriculum, whereupon Miss Butz taught mathematics only, and continued in this capacity until the time of her retirement in 1936 after twenty-one years of service.

Miss Grace M. Brauninger, during the five years she has been teaching in the Trenton High School, has been very active in the physical education department. She has taught hockey, tennis, and swimming, and introduced speedball in the school. In connection with these sports, Miss Brauninger formed color teams which play inter-class games. She inaugurated the physical efficiency tests and the point system, whereby girls may earn their emblems. Miss Brauninger organized and is the present sponsor of the Girls' Leaders' Corps and the Photography Club. In addition, she started the social dancing classes, and this year had charge of the dances for the operetta. Miss Brauninger has resigned to enter business.

Irving B. Hunter, retiring head of the foreign language department, has taught Latin in the Trenton High School for eighteen years. For several years he has acted as college adviser, giving information and advice to college preparatory students. He has long been a member of the faculty's male quartet, a group who sing frequently at our special functions. To the men of the faculty, his departure is a particular loss, for Mr. Hunter was looked upon as the dean of men.

Miss Bertha Lawrence, who has been vice-principal of the Trenton High School for the past five years, is resigning to become assistant professor of secondary education at the State Teachers College in Trenton. Miss Lawrence has had charge of all the extra-curricular activities in the Trenton Central High School, a big field in a big school. She is responsible for starting the Laureate, the school magazine, and for the adoption of a permanent school ring design. Particularly interested in student government, Miss Lawrence has organized and sponsored the Service Corps, the Presidents' Council, and the Interclub Council. The alumni of the Trenton High School have presented medals to these teachers in recognition of their splendid service.

English Department

The English course of the Trenton Central High School is most adaptable to the individual needs and abilities of the pupil.

Sophomores take, according to their ability, composition on one of three levels. The English composition courses cover units in word building, sentence structure, paragraphing, and outlining. Pupils who have achieved high scholastic records in the junior school are eligible to take the special speech course. Sophomore literature covers romantic and historical fiction, lyric and narrative poetry, prose non-fiction, and the drama.

Juniors who received during their sophomore year honor ratings in EC1 have an opportunity to take one of many special courses. The course in debating culminates in inter-scholastic debates. The Laureate and junior Spectator classes publish the school magazine and school paper, respectively. The dramatic classes direct and present plays during the noon-time periods. A course in public speaking is also offered to juniors.

Juniors not eligible for one of these classes take English composition on the level of their sophomore year. However, good ratings result in advancement to the next higher level. Regular junior literature consists of the study of the realistic novel, modern drama, contemporary magazines, and Shakespeare.

Seniors who are going to college are prepared for the entrance examinations in the College Board class. In addition to this course, the senior is given the opportunity to develop special talents in the Bobashela class, which publishes the year book, or the senior Spectator class, which publishes the school paper. The dramatic classes write, present, and direct plays. The public speaking class, the debating class, and the press class (which writes school news for the local paper) are also open to seniors.

Seniors not eligible or not preferring to take one of the special courses have a choice between two types of work. The first, which is for pupils who are going to colleges that do not require entrance examinations, is a survey of English and American literature. The composition given in this course is the type likely to be needed in college. For pupils not going to college a course in contemporary literature is offered. The composition for these classes emphasizes the so-called functional needs: conversation, letter writing, and diaries.

Social Science Department

The social science department offers an interesting and extensive program in history and economics. There are such courses as Ancient and Medieval History, Modern European History, World History, American History, Problems of Democracy, and Economic Geography.

The Ancient History course, open to sophomores, embraces the study of the achievements of man from the Stone Age to the Dark Ages.

As a continuation of the Ancient History course, the junior student may further his knowledge of history by taking Modern European History, which includes the study of Europe from the Renaissance to the present.

Perhaps a student in his junior year does not wish to continue the study of history for two successive years; if so, a somewhat condensed course is offered to him. World History, a condensed survey course, gives the pupil an excellent background for the understanding of present-day problems and trends.

Every senior is required to take American History, which comprises a complete study of our country from the time of its discovery to the present, and Problems of Democracy.

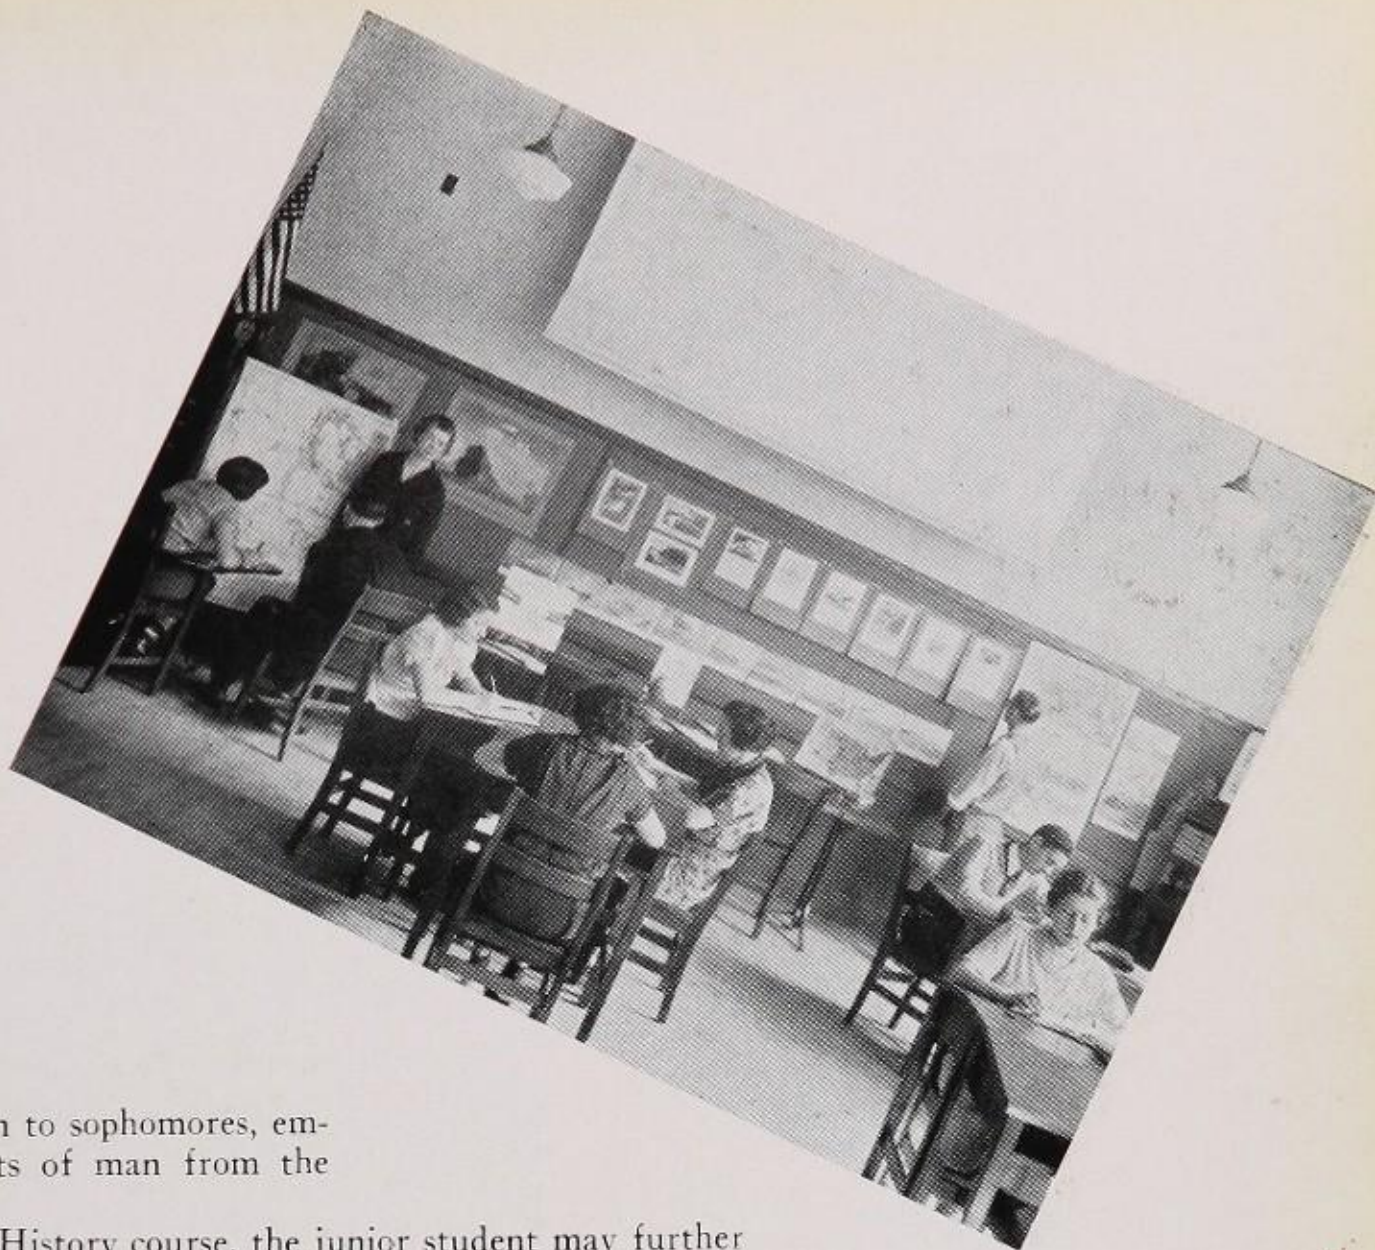

For pupils who have difficulty in getting a knowledge of history from text books, there are the Visual Aid courses, which make particular use of pictures.

Economics and Social Problems gives the student some idea of the various occupations of man and of the problems that confront man in his relationship with other men.

Economic Geography is the study from an economic point of view of the world's great nations, their locations, climates, people and commerce. This course is designed for sophomores, but it also finds favor with many upper-classmen.

In each of these courses the individual ability of the pupil determines the level of the class in which he shall be enrolled.

These courses are taught through the medium of efficient unit systems and are designed to give the student a background to aid in the solving of the many problems which will confront him, as a citizen, in the future.

The Commercial Department

The expansion of business at the beginning of the twentieth century gave rise to the need of more efficient and skilled workers, and led to a public demand for free commercial education. The Trenton High School has always attempted to satisfy this demand, and today offers three excellent commercial courses: secretarial, general business, and accounting.

Pupils who wish a more extensive knowledge of typing, bookkeeping, shorthand, and office practice enroll in the secretarial course. They devote time to the study of the fundamentals of the course and work with various office machines. The seniors are assigned to act as secretaries to heads of departments, to advisors, or to anyone else who needs their service for a period of twelve weeks.

Those students who wish to acquire a general knowledge of the entire field of business take the general business course. Subjects given in this course include commercial mathematics, salesmanship, marketing, advertising and commercial law. The accounting course also includes the subjects of the general business course but emphasizes one special phase of commercial work by giving an additional year of bookkeeping and one year of elementary accounting. The theories learned are given practical application by the more advanced students, who manage the book and supply rooms as well as the school store.

Each year about 33 1-3 per cent of our pupils choose the commercial course, and are graduated with sufficient knowledge and practice to enter the business world.

Science Department

The science department of the Trenton Central High School offers courses in biology, physics, and chemistry.

Biology and physics are taught on two levels. The S1 courses, which include laboratory work, prepare the student for college. The S2 courses do not cover so much as the S1 courses and are intended for those students who are not planning to go to institutions of higher learning.

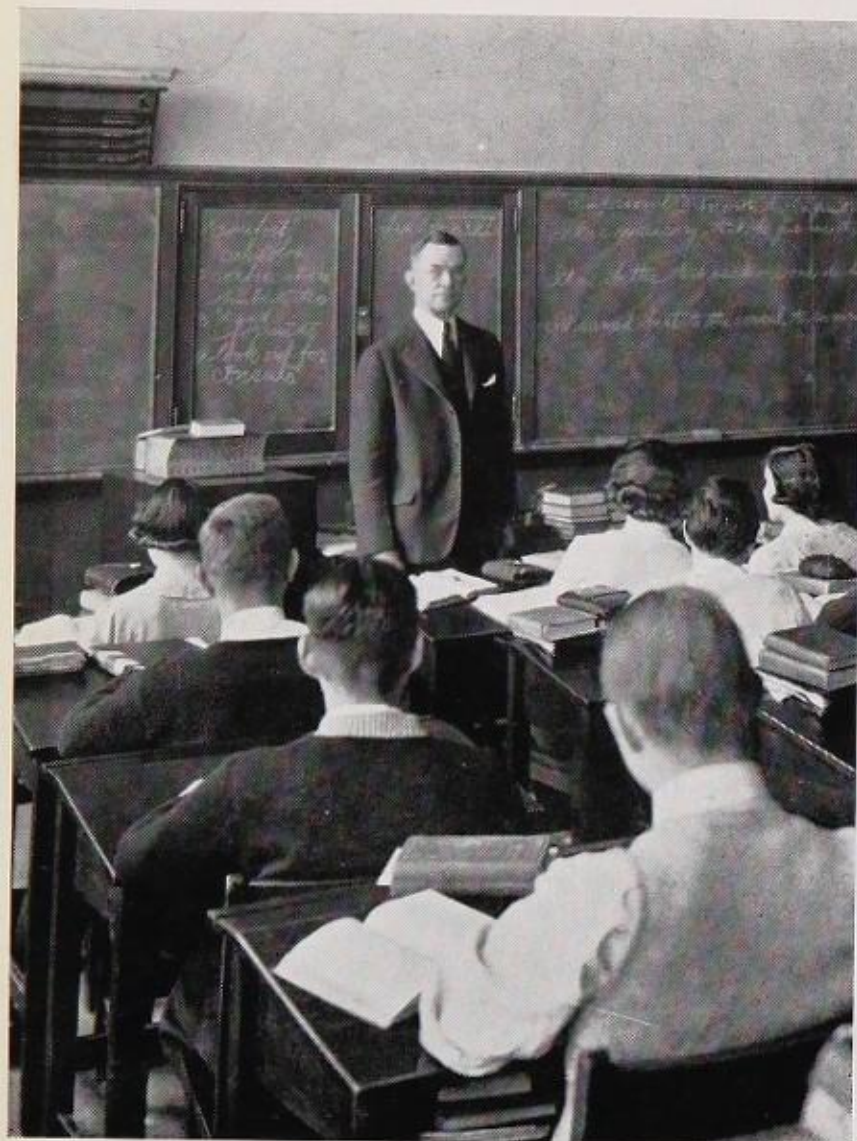

The biology course covers zoology (the study of animal life) and botany (the study of plant life). In the Trenton Central High School the course in zoology emphasizes the care of the human body.

In physics the student is taught the mechanics and principles of heat, light, electricity, and the other forms of energy.

The chemistry course includes the study of chemical changes, principles of chemical reactions, and what chemistry has done to transform our modern world.

Three courses of varying degrees of difficulty are given in chemistry. Pupils who take 12S1 are pupils who have outstanding ability in science or pupils who are preparing for College. Girls interested in household chemistry take 12S2, which emphasizes problems of food and diet. This course is usually chosen by those who are planning to follow a nursing career. Boys who find 12S1 too difficult take 12S3, which omits some theory and several experiments, and emphasizes metallurgy and industrial chemistry.

Foreign Language Teachers

Front Row—Miss Irene K. Ernst, Irving B. Hunter, head of department; Miss Mildred Shea.

Second Row—Dr. Viktor Sabary, John F. Kelsey, John A. Kirkpatrick, Earl W. Steffy, Frank Borgia.

The Foreign Language Department

The study of foreign languages has always been considered of great cultural value. Students of the Trenton Central High School are offered a wide selection in the field of languages. The pupil has a choice of five courses: Latin, French, Italian, Spanish and German.

Latin, which is the basis of many foreign languages, is also the foundation of much of our own speech. First-year students of Latin (ninth grade) acquire the rudiments of Latin composition by studying the laws of Latin construction and by translating from English into Latin and vice versa. Second-year students (tenth grade) read Caesar's Gallic Wars for four days a week and devote the fifth day to the study of grammar. Third-year students (eleventh grade) read the Orations of Cicero. In the fourth year (twelfth grade), the student reads the poetry of Virgil.

First-year French students (ninth grade) devote their time entirely to the study of grammar. During the succeeding three years of French that are offered, the pupil reads modern plays and novels, and studies the works of the seventeenth and eighteenth century poets.

A two-year course in Italian is offered. During the first year, two days are devoted to the study of grammar, one day to oral conversation and two days to reading. During their second year, students of Italian devote three days to grammar and the remaining two days of the week to reading Italian biographies and autobiographies.

During the first year of the two-year Spanish course, the student acquires a sufficient knowledge of grammar to enable him to read various Spanish stories; in his second year he learns to make reports (both oral and written) in Spanish on his reading. Conversation and literature are also included in the second year's work.

The German student studies grammar during his first year. In his second year he continues the study of grammar and reads stories of travel.

The Mathematics Department

The mathematics department of the Trenton Central High School is outstanding because of the wide scope of mathematics offered to the students. Geometry, algebra, trigonometry, and calculus are given. The pupil's choice of class depends upon the pupil's needs and ability. He may enter a regular mathematics class; or he may take college preparatory mathematics; or, if he shows particular ability in the line of mathematics, he may enter a special class which covers more than the required course in one year.

In his sophomore year, the student wishing to attend college may take geometry or he may enter an advanced group which studies algebra and trigonometry in addition to geometry. With this group J. Whitney Colliton, the head of the department, uses a slide machine which flashes the geometry theorems on a screen. There are also geometry courses for students not going to college and a course in industrial geometry for boys.

Juniors may study intermediate algebra, a subject required for college entrance. During the present year a new system was used in this course. In order to develop thinking power, the type rather than the problem itself was stressed. To prove the success of his experiment, Albert E. Wenzel, instructor, compared the first rating period marks of last year with those of this year and found that they were generally higher under the new system. Industrial mathematics and the fusion course are also offered to the junior. Intermediate algebra and trigonometry are included in the course.

Students in their senior year may study trigonometry, solid geometry, and advanced algebra. There is also a special class which covers solid geometry, advanced algebra, analytical geometry, and calculus.

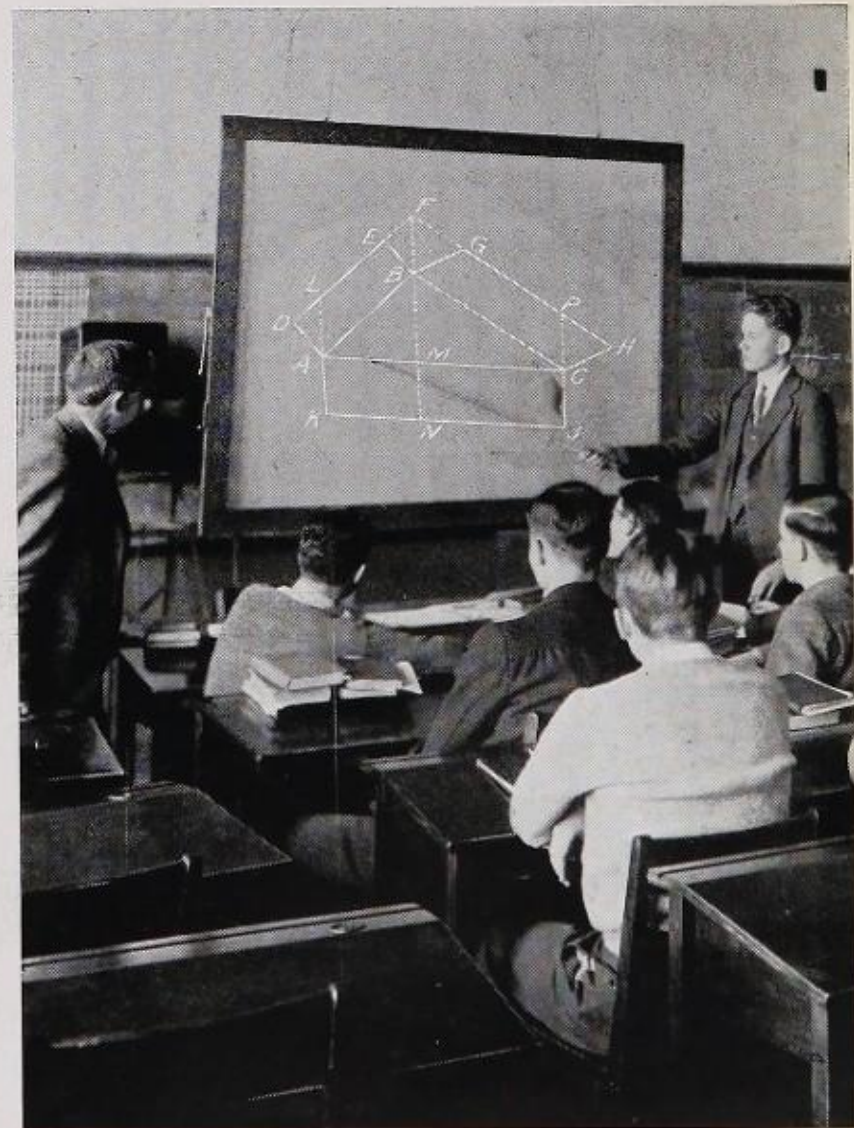

By being in a special class a student is able to gain extra credits toward his diploma. The credits, however, do not count as units for admission to college.

Mathematics Teachers

Front Row—Miss Carrie Butz, J. Whitney Colliton, head of department; Miss Mary K. Frederick.

Second Row—Albert C. Wenzel, Frederick Drewes, Emerson H. Burdick, Clarence W. Lowden.

Second Row—Francis E. Mack, Joseph W. Hills, Harry Burslem, J. Louis Crisp, Douglas T. Goodale.
Absentee—Friebis Siegfried.

The Shop Departments

A three-year machine-shop course is offered to those who have an interest in mechanics. "Seventy-five per cent of our work," says Douglas T. Goodale, instructor, "is showing the pupil whether he really wants to be a machinist or not."

Many students enroll in the print classes under the tutelage of Joseph W. Hills. The three-year course in printing prepares them for an apprenticeship in the printing business. At the same time, the members of these classes save the city money by printing much material needed by the school.

Pupils who take the three-year wood-shop course construct all the scenery used in the school plays.

The newest shop course in the school is the three-year electrical course under the direction of Carl Dannerth. Construction of radios is very popular among the pupils taking this course.

One shop course expressly for girls is the three-year sewing course. Some of the students taking this course learn how to make their own clothing, while others prepare to become dressmakers or costume designers.

The three-year course in cooking is unique in that the class work is not confined to cooking alone. The pupils follow a varied program that provides an excellent foundation for eleven different positions. Some of these positions are governess, air hostess, and stewardess.

The Art Department

The work of the art department emphasizes particularly the cultural side of art. Instead of beginning immediately to produce work for exhibition, the student entering the field gradually and carefully acquires a background. He learns to appreciate the work of others and to know what real art is. The art exhibits held in connection with this work help the students to develop the ability to judge and appreciate.

The general introductory course gives the student a taste of the crafts, fine arts, and commercial art. He is encouraged to develop any marked ability he may possess along a particular line, and he is allowed sufficient leeway to do so.

The student who continues as a fine arts student in his junior and senior years has the opportunity to select from a series of courses.

The crafts offer several fields: jewelry, metal work, pottery, bead work, puppetry, leather work, etc.

Commercial art is one of the most popular courses in the field. All phases of commercial work—field posters, book jackets, lettering, etc.—are engaged in.

The student who does not wish to specialize in any one field or who is interested in the fine arts as opposed to commercial art or the crafts may enroll in the general art course and study interior decorating, book illustration, and costume design—from the point of view of the costume designer and not from that of the commercial illustrator. Designing is done with either fabrics or paint.

Any of the courses mentioned may be continued for two or three years because advanced work is given. Yet, since some of the shop and business courses of the general and commercial departments increase greatly in value when correlated art courses are offered with them, students may take a special course which includes art in the home and art in industry, and devote one semester to each phase of the course. However, they pursue the art work only so far as it is directly related to their other subjects.

ALTHOUGH there are 3,700 pupils enrolled in the Trenton Central High School, the individual is not lost sight of. Upon entering school, each student is given a physical and a mental examination. The physical examination enables the gymnastic instructor to place a pupil in a group according to his ability. In this way no one is taxed beyond his strength. Pupils who have disabilities are placed in special classes. The mental examination enables the advisor to schedule a pupil according to the latter's ability. The fast, medium, and slow groups give all pupils a chance to work to their capacity.

Senior Class History

Enjoying the distinction of being the first sophomore group to organize in the new school, the Class of 1936, led by Richard Grocott, president, Michael Starski, vice-president, Bernice Schultz, secretary, and Desider Simkow, treasurer, immediately proceeded to participate in the various school activities, notably the spring musicale.

Upon becoming juniors, the class, with an eye to organization selected its leaders—Richard Grocott, president, Harry Olinsky, vice-president, Bernice Schultz, secretary, and Desider Simkow, treasurer—and then set about making history.

The Laureate class, a junior Bobashela class which contributes to the school magazine, was organized, and in the 1935 issue the juniors had a representation of more than fifty per cent among the contributors.

Continuing its activities in other fields, the class adopted a standard ring and pin design for future graduating classes. On March 14 and 15, twenty juniors received that coveted honor, induction into the National Honor Society.

On May 24, the climax to the social activities came in the form of the spectacular Junior Prom.

1935-36

Elevated to the rank of seniors, the class under the leadership of Robert Davis, president, Harry Olinsky, vice-president, Bernice Schultz, secretary, and Desider Simkow, treasurer, availed itself of every opportunity to make its final year one long to be remembered.

The first event of note was the Washington trip, and for three happy but hectic days, October 10, 11, and 12, the seniors overran the nation's capital.

After returning from Washington, the seniors resumed work on the senior play, Monsieur Beaucaire, and presented it on November 21, 22, and 23.

Deeming the practice of selecting candidates by members of a nominating committee undemocratic, the class amended its constitution to allow nominations from the floor.

February 7, the date of the Senior Sport Dance, marked the transition from political to social activities, and on April 2 and 3, Girls' Sport Nite, an event introduced in this school last year, caused thousands of spectators to flock to the school to view the stunts, dances, songs, cheers, and relays presented by the girls, and to see, in addition, the Red Team suffer defeat at the hands of the Black Team.

Since financial aid was necessary for the publication of the Bobashela, the three classes combined to sponsor a Bobashela dance on May 14.

And so—a little wiser, a little less carefree, a little sad, a little glad, the class of 1936 concludes its high school career and seeks new fields of endeavor.

ALEX KRAMER

Alex Kramer was born on August 13, 1918, in Trenton, New Jersey. He attended the Hillcrest and Gregory schools, Junior No. 3, and the Trenton Central High School. He was taken sick during his sophomore year, and died on July 22, 1934.

In Memoriam Alex Kramer Memorial

Alex Kramer's classmates at Junior High School No. 3 and his friends at the Trenton Central High School remember Alex as a jolly sort of person whose ready wit always made him a welcome addition to any group. He pursued a wide variety of interests and activities. A lover of music, Alex was fond of singing and of playing the violin. Spring and summer found him indulging in baseball, tennis, and quoits, while fall and winter beheld him enthusiastically attending football and basketball games. At Junior High School No. 3, he served as an officer of the Boys' Safety Patrol and as The Buzz reporter for his homeroom class. Because of his executive ability, he represented his homeroom class at the Presidents' Council of Trenton Central High School.

Alex's most outstanding ability, however, was his affluent command of the English language and his extensive vocabulary. He read more widely than the average person of his age and was consequently a valuable member of the staff of Junior High School No.

3's paper, The Buzz. At Trenton Central High School, he not only continued to write prose but also wrote some verse.

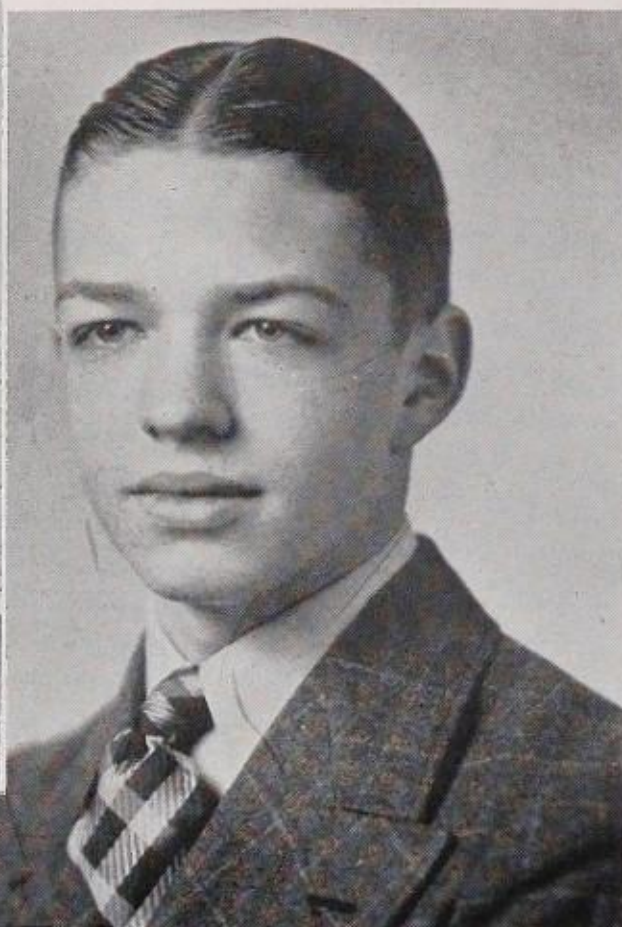

The memorial to their son, Alex, which Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Kramer are leaving to the school is a yearly award of $50.00 and a gold medal, to be given to that boy of the graduating class who, in the opinion of a board of judges, has shown the most aptitude for English composition.

To be eligible for the award, a boy must possess honor ratings in English in June of his junior year and in February of his senior year and must also submit material of his own composition. This matter, written in his senior year, must be material which has been published in a school publication or in the daily press, articles which have been approved for publication but have not yet been printed, or plays which have been acceptably presented before the student body. In addition the candidate must have an excellent character, and must indicate a desire to study English in an institution of higher learning.

Junior Class History

The Class of 1937 elected as their president this year, Hyman Kaplan, who led the group as sophomores.

During Kaplan's first administration, the class drew up a model constitution, and sponsored a successful Spring Dance.

This year, during "Hy's" second administration, the juniors made a name for themselves in the Laureate and Spectator classes; sponsored a gala Leap Year Dance and a Junior Prom; and contributed much to the financial success of the Bobashela.

Activities . . . "Activity alone to man is happiness."—GOETHE.

PUPILS turn from the regular routine of the day to extra-curricular activities as a source of relaxation and pleasure. Diversity is offered to the student through the medium of clubs, sports, and auditorium programs. There is a special period of thirty-five minutes allotted in the middle of the day for this phase of school life. During this period a pupil may on one day attend a meeting of a club; on another, enjoy an auditorium program; on another, participate in a rehearsal for Sports Night. The program of activities gives the pupil an excellent opportunity to develop a sound mind in a sound body.

Bobashela Class

Bobashela Editors

"Theirs not to reason why; theirs but to do or die," may well be termed the motto of the Bobashela class, which was organized in 1932, and which edits the yearbook, Bobashela, under the supervision of Edward A. Sullivan, faculty advisor.

Not only does the Bobashela class "get out" the yearbook, but it also helps edit, during the first term The Laureate, our school magazine, the editor-in-chief of which is selected from the Bobashela class. Beatrice Rosen assumed the aforementioned responsibility for the 1936 publication.

Most of the members of the Bobashela class this year had been members of the Laureate class last year, and were therefore well acquainted with the first term's work of issuing a magazine. The first phase of this work was short story writing. After studying the fundamentals of writing short stories, each member of the class submitted his plot and its method of treatment to the class for criticism and discussion. After the plot was accepted, the pupil was allowed to write.

When each pupil had written a short story, he was allowed to continue the short story-writing or to concentrate on either verse or essay writing, or both.

A difficult task confronted the editors of the yearbook. The pictures of 730 seniors had to be taken, and statistics compiled for some 900 students. For the first time in the history of the school, the names of all juniors and sophomores were included in the yearbook. Much time was spent on an artistic layout of pictures and on the development of breezy articles.

By May 1, all the work was completed and sent to the printer to be assembled into the 1936 Bobashela.

Choose The Team! Wear Your Ribbon Root For The Girls Of T.H.S.

Ribbons, posters, songs, cheers, committees, meetings! A mad jumble of activities, ideas, practicing compose the requisites for that night o' nights, Girls' Sport Nite. Once again, the girls have rallied 'round to work frantically to produce an entertainment equal to and perhaps superior to that of last year.

Spirited girls have given their minds, time, and work unselfishly to make a success of this undertaking. For weeks they have planned and practiced and next week will present an exhibition of their skill.

The "weaker" sex will rise to the occasion and equal the boys in their enthusiasm.

Dining, Dancing, Lights, And Song Hal Kemp Draws A Mighty Throng

By Betty Baldwin

"Why, hello girls, are you having a nice evening?" Thus we were greeted by one of the country's most famous band leaders, Hal Kemp. And were we thrilled!

This thrilling incident occurred during the New York trip made by members of the junior and senior Spectator classes to the Columbia Scholastic Press convention. After scanning hurriedly through a telephone directory we, three lone girls, decided on the Manhattan Room at the Hotel Pennsylvania. And what a pleasant surprise it was to find "the" Kemp band playing there!

We arrived for dinner quite early, and were ushered by several waiters to a table on a small balcony near the band. Upon glancing over the prices on the menu we at once knew why they were so very pleasant to us. After ordering our dinners we asked the waiter to have Mr. Kemp autograph our menus and the first thing we knew, there he was, Hal in person.

He talked to us for a few minutes, autographed the menus, and then asked us if we had any favorite pieces that he could play for us. Our requests included

Pythagorean Society—Organized 1915

Formed in 1915 for the study of higher mathematics, the Pythagorean Society completed its twenty-first year under its original sponsor, J. Whitney Colliton.

As in former years, members tutored students who were weak in arithmetic. The regular meetings were given over to mathematical discussions and guest speakers, among whom were Miss Edith Klein and Albert C. Wenzel of the faculty.

In accordance with tradition, the Pythagorean club again awarded the Goldmann Medal to the student who had done the most outstanding work in mathematics.

In April the members of the club presented a play, "Wurzel Flummery," with Grace Hundt and Arthur Kelsey in the leading roles.

Heading the social events was the annual reunion of present members and alumni which was held at the Longacres Country Club on April 4 in the form of a dinner dance. Arthur Kelsey, president of the club, acted as toastmaster and presented Mr. Colliton who spoke at the dinner. This reunion honored Mr. Colliton who is completing his twenty-fifth year in the school. Mr. Colliton is the head of the mathematics department and the organizer of the Pythagorean Society.

Belles Lettres—Organized 1916

In 1916 Belles Lettres was organized to give students interested in literature a chance to gain more knowledge of good reading in the fields of prose, poetry, and the drama. At the beginning of this year an open meeting was held, which all sophomores interested in the club were invited to attend. In addition to weekly meetings held in school, the club met once a month at the home of Arthur S. Hancock, sponsor.

Reports, given at the beginning of each meeting, by four members of the club on books pertaining to the topic at hand, brought out the various authors' contradictory opinions and provoked discussion. Round table discussions have been held on such topics as "Why Go to College?", "The Conflict of Two Generations," "Is America Lowbrow?", "The Individual Versus Public Opinion," "Should America Have Unlimited Free Speech?", "Is Modern Realism a True Picture of Life?", "A Comparison of the Works of Guest, Millay, Service, and Noyes," and "The Difference Between Right and Wrong." The final project of the year was an extensive comparison of the cultural advantages in Trenton with those in other capital cities in the East of approximately the same population.

The program committee which chose these topics consisted of Robert Rence, chairman, Helen West, Jean Paul, Elma Griscom, Stanley Husid, and Mr. Hancock.

During the winter Belles Lettres met defeat at the hands of the Forum Club in a challenge ping pong match.

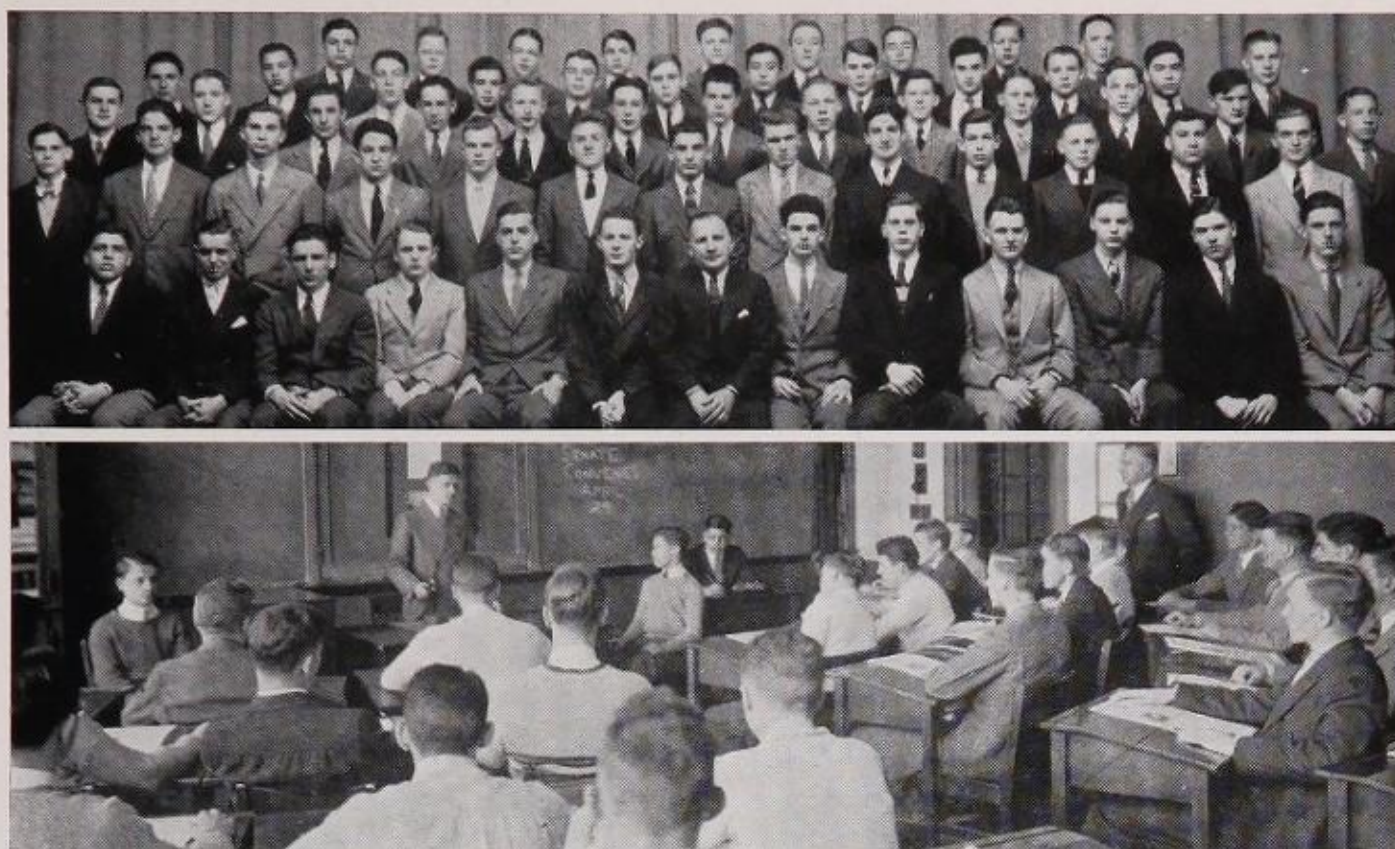

Belles Lettres members went to Philadelphia with Mr. VanKirk's dramatic classes to see Walter Hampden in Cyrano de Bergerac, and Burgess Meredith in the current hit, Winterset.

The annual initiation was held in May on Rotary Island. At this time fifteen new members were taken into the club.

On April 16, Belles Lettres and Clionian gave a dance at the Contemporary Club. Another social activity of Belles Lettres was the annual picnic held at the shore.

Forum Club—Organized 1929

The Forum Club, sponsored by Claude B. Kleinfelter since its organization in 1929, met every week to discuss events and to promote active citizenship throughout our school.

Each member of the club, representing some state or territory, made up the Student Senate, over which Spencer Barber, the president of the Forum Club, presided. Such bills as the "Child Labor Amendment" and the "Townsend Old Age Pension Plan" were discussed. Spencer Bloor led the Republicans; and Keyron Donohue, the Democrats. Thus the club members were able to study the procedure of the United States Senate by actual practice.

A novel contest was held in the form of a Ping-Pong Tournament, which was managed by Winthrop Short. George Hottel was the winner, with Craig Barry as runner-up. Another contest sponsored by the club was the annual oratorical contest, open to all students of the Trenton Central High School. It was held on March 16, 17, and 18 before the student body, and was won by Theodore Sands, whose topic was The Pure Food and Drug Act.

The Forum Club participated quite actively in sports, all managed by Keyron Donohue. They accepted a challenge from the Clionian Club to a football game and played it on December 2, 1935. The 7-6 victory elated the Forum Club. Harry Olinsky scored the touchdown, and LeRoy Smith, Jr., made the extra point.

The first social event of the year was the initiation of new members in Scott Scammell's barn. The fact that the party was held in a barn is indicative of the character of the initiation. A fitting close of a particularly active year was the reunion, which a large number of alumni attended, held on June 19 at the Trenton Country Club.

Boys' Science Club

Front Row—William Rogers, Warren Ermeling, treasurer; William Bullock, William White, Harry Wallace, Ellard A. Buck, sponsor; Alton Eby, Philip Means, Ralph S. Cohen, Charles Monard, Dick Hurd.

Boys' Science Club—Organized 1921

With Ellard A. Buck as sponsor, the Boys' Science Club was organized in 1921 to promote interest in the study of all sciences.

During the year of 1935-36, inspection trips were taken to places of scientific interest. The club visited the health department of the State laboratories, where experimentation with disease germs is carried on; the Murray Rubber Company, where the boys were taken through the factory to watch the making of rubber articles; and the Bell Telephone Company, where they were shown how telephone connections are made.

At each meeting, one member spoke to the club on some scientific topic. Martin Epstein discussed "Louis Pasteur"; Fred Stahuber, "Roebing Wire Mills"; William White, "Astronomy"; Ernest Johnson, "Gunpowder"; Mathew Lapin, "Mercury and Its Compounds"; and Philip Meltzer, "The Electrons."

In addition to the speakers from within the club, outside speakers were invited to address the club on scientific subjects. Captain Snook, of the New Jersey State Police, spoke on "Science in Relation to the Law." William B. Christie of the Public Service demonstrated the various types and sizes of electric light bulbs and a new type of neon bulb, and showed slides on correct lighting.

During the Easter vacation, on April 17, the Boys' Science Club and the Girls' Science Club took a trip to Philadelphia. First, they visited the Fels Planetarium, where they heard a lecture on astronomy, and, in broad daylight, observed the stars and moon through a telescope. They then went to the Franklin Institute, where they saw the many modern mechanical and electrical devices which are now being introduced.

The retirement of Mr. Buck at the end of the present year is a great loss not only to the Boys' Science Club but also to the school which he has faithfully served for 34 years.

Girls' Science Club—Organized 1927

With Annie P. Hughes as sponsor, the Girls' Science Club was organized in 1927 to promote interest in the study of all sciences and to permit girls of similar interests to get better acquainted.

During the Easter vacation, the Girls' Science Club and the Boys' Science Club took a trip to Philadelphia. First, they visited the Curtis Publishing Company, where they watched the publishing of books, and the Philadelphia Museum, where the Liberty Bell is kept. They then visited the Fels Planetarium, where they heard a lecture on astronomy, and, in broad daylight, observed the stars and moon through a telescope. At the Franklin Institute, they saw many modern mechanical and electrical devices which are now being introduced.

Besides the trip to Philadelphia, the club visited the Bell Telephone Company, where they were shown how telephone connections are made.

At each meeting, one member spoke to the club on some scientific topic. Alice Sreback discussed "Alchemy and the Alchemists"; Ruth Pologe, "Making of Cement," which she illustrated with slides; Mary Papp, "The Divining Rod"; Barbara Chapman and Marguerite Weiss, "Science of the Week"; and Miss Annie P. Hughes, "Stars and Constellations."

In addition to speakers from within the club, outsiders were invited to lecture on scientific subjects. Captain Snook, of the New Jersey State Police, spoke on "Science in Relation to the Law." William B. Christie of the Public Service demonstrated the various types and sizes of electric light bulbs, spoke of a new type of neon bulb which is now being perfected, and showed slides on the correct lighting of the home.

On June 10 the club, accompanied by Miss Hughes and Miss Bullock, took a Bird Walk to White City Park. Following this, an initiation was held at the home of Mina Sutcliffe.

Organized in 1917 to encourage a better academic and social understanding among students, the Clionian Society closed its first year under Miss Mary Meagher's sponsorship.

During the weekly meetings members of the club made reports on current events. These included the following talks: "Crime and Movies," by James Kenney; "Were the Lindberghs Justified in Leaving America?" by Harold Kramer; "Socialism," by Nathaniel Doughty; and "The New 100-inch Telescope," by Solomon Lasof. Once each month the club was entertained by a guest speaker. The first of these, William J. O'Brien, spoke on "The Effects of War on Italy." Vance Pierce in his talk, "Opportunities for Young People," explained that present conditions should not interfere with the future of young people. Other prominent monthly speakers were William Blackwell and Elma Lawson Johnston. Each meeting was usually concluded by the reading of the "Climaniac," a humorous newspaper, edited by a different club member each week. This weekly, which contains intimate news about the members, proved so popular that all the issues were combined in one book. Each "Clionian" received a copy.

Most important of the social events was the Clionian Reunion held on December 23, 1935, at Longacres Country Club. The success of this affair was due largely to the efforts of Franklin Adams. Following this, a roller skating party was held at the Garden Skating Rink. Evelyn Wolf was the chairman of the committee in charge of this undertaking. Miss Meagher, who has proved a most active sponsor, gave a Valentine Party at the Community Home on North Clinton Avenue. Following the Leap Year Dance, a joint dance with the Belles Lettres was held on April 16, 1936, at the Contemporary Club. In the field of sports the rivalry with the Forum Club was continued, the Clionian Club losing the annual football game, 7-6, but winning the basketball game, 13-10.

THE LOVE of the theatre is so universal that it is surprising that drama has played such a casual part in school life. Too few pupils realize that acting is an excellent cure for the feeling of self-consciousness that affects adversely the efficiency and mental health of the student. The wholesomeness and the joy of this activity are of great assistance in developing a healthy attitude toward school work. The excellence of the plays presented in the Trenton Central High School has led to an increasing number of plays produced, and has finally necessitated the introduction of drama classes into the curriculum.

SARAH C. CHRISTIE

Miss Christie's Dramatic Classes

Last September, the large enrollment in the dramatic classes made it necessary to obtain a teacher in addition to Harold A. VanKirk to give instruction in drama. Miss Sarah C. Christie, because of the brilliant work in creative writing that she has accomplished in the Trenton schools, was asked to fill this position.

At the outset, Miss Christie's classes studied the history of the drama, the structure of the play, and the art of gesture. After the students had learned the essential rudiments of drama, they began the writing, acting, and producing of plays. It is interesting to note that when The Laureate was in need of an original play, Nathaniel Doughty, a member of Miss Christie's class, submitted an excellent one-act play, entitled And So It Goes.

Two plays were presented by Miss Christie's classes in the Auditorium. The first, showing the art of gesture to good effect, was the pantomime, Pierrot and Pierrette. The Perils of Penelope, the second play, was written by the pupils themselves. Since it was a "thrilling melodrama," the desired effect was produced on the audience by the exaggeration of tone and gesture.

Many students who have elected drama show a desire to continue the study of this interesting subject in an institution of higher learning.

"The old order changeth, yielding place to the new." This quotation finds direct application in the fact that, as the stars of today fade, these ambitious and talented students of the drama will succeed them and gain the spotlight on the legitimate stage of the future.

Senior Play

Monsieur Beaucaire stepped into the limelight on the evenings of November 21, 22, and 23, when the annual senior play was presented in the Trenton Central High School Auditorium.

As the lights were dimmed, a hush came over the audience, and the curtain rose on a young Frenchman, Monsieur Beaucaire (Manuel Kunis), who had fled to England to escape the ire of his cousin. Throughout England he was known as a gambler and a barber. Disguising himself as a count, he gained admission to a ball, where he met the Lady of his Dreams, Lady Mary Carlyle (Adelle Tyler). Their romance progressed smoothly until Monsieur's jealous rival, Captain Badger (Gordon Latella), denounced him as a common gambler and barber. Imagine his Lady's embarrassment! Naturally, her love fell a number of degrees; in fact, it became considerably cooler. Monsieur Beaucaire, disillusioned as to the emotion of everlasting love, was suddenly discovered in his true identity, that of a Prince—cousin to the King of France. Scorning the love which Lady Mary Carlyle once again offered him, he returned to his own country, "a sadder, but a wiser man."

The excellent cast was coached brilliantly by Harold A. VanKirk; and the realistic scenery was designed by Friebs Siegfried and constructed under the supervision of Francis Mack. For smooth manipulation of scenery we give credit to the Stagecraft Club. Since one of the purposes of producing the senior play is that of revenue, we commend the Ticket Committee for the extensive sale of tickets and the Candy Committee for additional revenue. The total receipts amounted to $675.14.

"The Flower of Venezia"

On May 8 and 9, the musical organizations presented the operetta, "The Flower of Venezia," a complicated tale of love and intrigue.

The tale: Victor (Gordon Latella) and the Duke diBomba (Henry Mantel) both love Fioretta (Muriel Sklute), daughter of the Doge (Leon Freeman) and his dominating wife (Jean Paul). However, through the aid of family assassins (Henry Suvalsky and Martin Epstein), and potent poisons, the Duke transfers his affections to Lavinia (Stella Sinclair), Fioretta's sister, making Victor's and Fioretta's happiness complete.

Those responsible for the staging, music, costuming, scenery and lighting, dancing, printing and advertising were Miss Hanna Foster, Freibis Siegfried, Francis Mack, Miss Grace Brauning, Joseph W. Hills, Miss Daphne Koenig, and Angell Mathewson.

Minstrel Internationale

On the evenings of March 13 and 14, the first minstrel show of the Trenton Central High School was presented by the band.

With L. Rogene Borgen as director, and William Cook as interlocutor, the show was a "howling success." No end of merriment was furnished by the six notorious endmen: Norman Bottorí, an Englishman; Thomas Conte, an Italian; Donald Gallagher, a stuttering Hobo; Charles Kenner, a Negro; James Chambers, a Jew; and Harold Stevens, a Swede.

In the "Circle of Special Features," the band presented the "Stephen Foster Tableau," "The Ragtime Wedding," "The German Band," and a "Hanging Skit." Calbert Kelsey impressively exhibited a lighted baton act, and the Accordion Band made its first appearance before the public.

Second Shepherd's Play

For the Christmas Auditorium program, the dramatic classes of Harold A. VanKirk presented the Second Shepherd's Play. This morality-interlude, dating back to 1450, still holds the ingredients of hilarious comedy.

The three shepherds (John Rich, Jordan Barlow, and Henry Suvalsky) are philosophizing on the miseries of the poor and the misfortunes of marriage when Mok (Sam Hirsh), a thief, appears and wishes to spend the night with them. During the night, Mok makes off with a sheep to his nearby hut. For fear of discovery, the wily Mok conspires with Gill, his wife (Leon Freeman), to dress the animal in baby's clothes and to tuck it in a cradle. Hearing strange noises from Mok's hut, the shepherds enter, discover the sheep, and punish Mok by tossing him up in a blanket.

Stagecraft Crew

The colorful scenery that did so much to lend atmosphere to the plays presented in the Auditorium this year is the work of the Stagecraft Crew, which is comprised of seventeen members. Under the direction of Friebis Siegfried, the group designed and painted the scenery for the Auditorium plays, and did the vast amount of mechanical work behind the scenes so necessary to the successful staging of a play.

Before an individual is permitted to join the crew, he must present references of past experience in stage work, and must be an "A" or "B" student in drawing and in other branches of art work.

At intervals during the year the members of the crew gave reports on the technique and methods of stage work. These reports familiarize the crew with the stage from a mechanical point of view.

EXTENSIVE ATHLETIC FIELDS, vast gymnasiums, modern pools and up-to-date equipment enable our students to regulate their school activities primarily on a health basis. The diversified programs, sponsored by our health department, tend to further the interest of the student in athletics. Even those pupils who are not permitted to participate in vigorous exercise because of physical disability are given a definite program to follow in order that they may build up their bodies as near to normal as possible. Thus we put into actual practice the theory, long ago emphasized by Locke, that a healthy body is conducive to a healthy mind.

Girls' Speedball

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Isabella Quick and Mrs. Anne Griffiths, some nine hundred girls vied for honors in the annual inter-period tournament championship.

Girls' Basketball

In the annual intra-mural basketball tournament, sponsored by Miss Grace M. Brauning, Edith Hough's team defeated squads captained by Alice Halliday, Betty Rhoades and Ruth Miller.

Girls' Tap Leaders

After having learned some intricate dance steps from Mrs. Elizabeth DiGiorgio and Mrs. Anne Griffiths, the tap leaders taught the dances to the girls participating in Girls' Sports Night.

Song Leaders for Sports Night

For Girls' Sports Night, the songleaders led the Red and Black teams in songs, the peppy lyrics of which were composed by the leaders themselves.

"T" Winners

Every girl in the Trenton Central High School now has an opportunity to earn a major "T." Under the new point system, adopted by the Athletic Department, there are more than fifty different ways by which a girl may accumulate the points necessary for a "T."

Leadership in "gym" activities and participation in inter-period and intra-mural sports enable the girls to earn credit. The greatest advantage of the new system, however is the recognition it gives to individual sports. As a result, the girls spare neither their skates nor their bicycles. They group for hiking trips as well as for an afternoon of horse-back riding, and by no means do they ignore tennis.

Major "T's" were given to the ten girls who earned the highest number of points and who in addition had taken 75% of each semester's showers. Mamie Abbott, Amelia Jastrebski, Sallie Mohr, Viola Primm, Betty Rhoads, Helen Rochford, Peggy Scudder, Dorothy Shirkey, Helen West, and Evelyn Wolf were presented with "T's." In addition to this major award shields were given to the girls who had earned three hundred points and a chevron for each additional hundred points. Those who earned seven hundred points received recognition with a star.

Board of Coaches

At the beginning of the 1935 football season, Dr. Spencer, intensely interested in the athletics of our school, discovered among our faculty eight talented former gridmen. These men, Claude Kleinfelter, Douglas Goodale, Clarence Lowden, LeRoy Smith, Edward Murphy, Morris Midkiff, "Al" Neuschaefer, and "Al" Clemens, had formerly produced successful teams. They generously offered their services to help brighten Trenton High's football prospects.

A sophomore team, a junior team, and a varsity were organized. The idea is to give the football player two years of good training so that he will be fit for the varsity in his senior year. On the sophomore team, the young gridder receives instruction in the fundamentals of the game. On the jayvees, he receives further instruction and meets tougher competition. One can easily see what sort of team Trenton will develop with such a plan in the future.

This year, the sophomores, guided by Claude "Dutch" Kleinfelter and his assistants, Douglas "Cap" Goodale and Ed Murphy, won five games and lost two. The jayvees, coached by the capable mentors, Clarence "Cap" Lowden and Morris Midkiff, ended their season with a record of two victories and two defeats. Because this year's varsity was made up of green men unaccustomed to the Warner system, the coaching squad found it difficult to produce a team that "clicked." Since next year's varsity can draw men of experience from this year's sophomore and jayvee teams, Head Coach Pat Clemens and his assistants, LeRoy Smith and "Al" Neuschaefer, are looking optimistically toward the fall.

Sophomore Football

The sophomore football team, organized last year, displayed such skill during the season that the future of football at Trenton High looks mighty promising.

Coached by Claude Kleinfelter, Edward Murphy, and Douglas Goodale, the team developed into a smooth-working machine that won five out of seven contests played.

In avenging a previous defeat at the hands of the George School Junior Varsity, the team won its greatest victory. Lloyd Bradley, the hero of the game, blocked three Georgian punts, one of which he recovered and which led to a T. H. S. score.

Proof that the sophs will make varsity material next year came in the B. M. I. game. With two inches of water covering the greater part of the field, they adopted water polo tactics and splashed their way to victory.

Although the Junior Varsity lost to Lambertville by three points and to Yardley by a single point, they soon learned the art of punting and pushing the pigskin over the last lime line. It was a group of veterans and not ping-pong juniors that won 33 points from Cathedral's seconds and from Bristol's first team, and sent both home sore and scoreless.

The opportunity to play exceptionally strong opponents has whipped the J. V.'s into such shape that Trenton High's football fans are anticipating for 1937 a "humdinger" of a season, punctuated by many victories.

If the success of a team is measured by its improvement, then the Trenton High Varsity football team for the season of 1935 would rank first in the state. In the beginning, Al Clemens' players were new to the game and unacquainted with the Warner system. Six times in succession they went down to defeat before stronger and more experienced teams; but with each game ability and confidence grew until the team developed a winning stride that carried it through the last three games.

Trenton High first found that she had become a team of real power in the Atlantic City Convention Hall. There, in the presence of 8,500 football fans, she gave a superb exhibition of running attack and aerial barrage that humbled the Atlantic team by a score of thirteen to two.

From this victory, Trenton gained confidence, and her latent powers awakened. By single, double, and fake reverses she hopelessly bewildered the strong Princeton High eleven and defeated them by a score of twenty to twelve.

A victory over Cathedral before 7,000 spectators brought the season to a dramatic close. During the first half of the game, Fuccello and Boroday made spectacular runs, and each scored a touchdown for Trenton High. Then the rain descended and the floods came. Thousands of spectators left, but thousands with undampened ardor remained. Undaunted by the muddy field, Trenton High held her ground and ended the season with a thirteen-seven victory.

Besides sharing honors for the State title with Kearney, the Red and Black iron-clad booters registered seven victories, suffered one defeat, and tied one score.

In the two games with Camden, the locals showed real power, winning the initial game by a 7-0 score and the second game by a 5-0 score. Long Branch offered no competition to Trenton as the final score, 15-0, will indicate. Princeton Frosh succumbed by a 4-0 score, and Bayonne fell to defeat to the tune of 4-1. These games featured a brilliant passing attack led chiefly by Jimmy Carlton, Charles Budd, Al Innocenzi, James Thomas, and Dave Rankin. The guarding of Goalie Steve Chorba was beyond words of description.

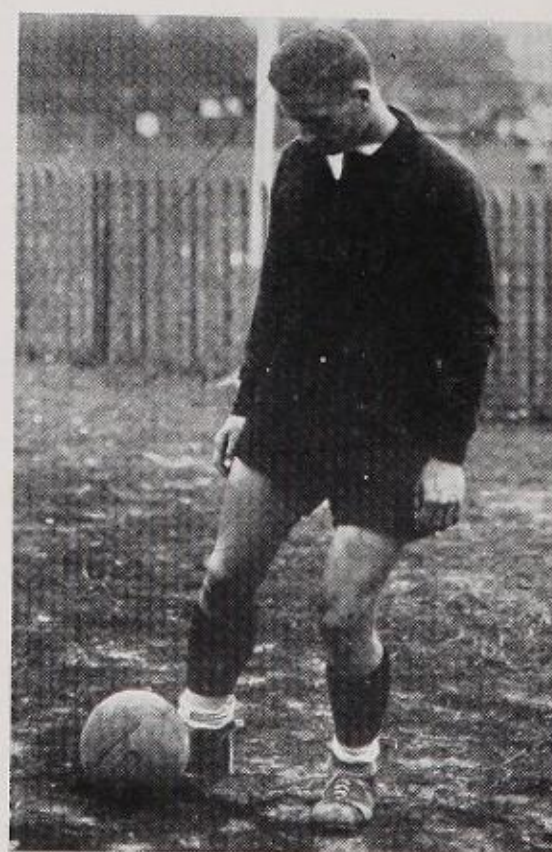

A thousand excited spectators attended the home game with Harrison and saw Trenton suffer its first defeat in two consecutive seasons. The visitors gained a 2-1 lead, and guarded the goal so closely that it was impossible for the Red and Black to tie the score.

The home game with Hamilton produced much excitement among the followers of these two rivals. Both teams had to be content, however, with an unsatisfying tie, 2-2.

The season ended with the customary taste of victory in Trenton's mouth, for Harrison went down to defeat to the score of 3-2.

Although a new sport at Trenton High, boxing has been popularly received. Large crowds witnessed matches between the halves of basketball games and in an intra-mural championship meet.

Mike Kupecki has a terrific left, which he uses to advantage practically all of the time. Matthew Dunn has developed a fast left hook, which, accompanied by his weaving tactics, makes him a very formidable opponent. James Davis is the most experienced member of the club and is an all-round good boxer.

With a record of 13 wins and 3 losses, the 1936 tennis team captured the South Jersey Inter-Scholastic League title.

John Mack, Louis Applestein, John Mras, and LeRoy Atchley were undefeated in league competition. Harry Pfitzinger, number one man on the squad, represented Trenton High in the George School Interscholastics and won the Group Three championship. Major letters were awarded to Edgar Levy, Dick Darling, John Mack, Louis Applestein, John Mras, and LeRoy Atchley.

Competing against seven schools in the most important track event of the season, namely the George School Invitation Meet, Trenton High won second place.

Cross Country

Alton C. Eby, manager; Charles Pushman, Earle Wright, Samuel Finch, Michael Petras.
Absentee—Charles Lockwood.

Hindered by inexperience, illness and injuries, the T. H. S. harriers won but a single contest out of five. However, the morale of the Red and Black runners is worthy of commendation because of their gallant showings against the strong teams of Elizabeth, Princeton Freshmen, Princeton High, and Peddie.

Basketball

Second Row—LeRoy Smith, coach; John Champion, Benjamin Olinsky, Perry Jones, Irving Kern, Steward Burchell, Ernest Young, Clifford Smith, captain.

Led by Coach "Red" Smith and Captain Cliff Smith, the 1936 basketball team won 23 games and lost 7. This record was compiled in the face of the strongest opposition of Eastern high schools. Peekskill High, upper New York State champions, and Allentown, last year's Pennsylvania State champs, were among the highly touted teams defeated by Trenton.

Besides Cliff Smith, the Red and Black array consisted of Willie Flynn, Harry Olinsky, Ernie Young, and Stew Burchell. This combination clicked smoothly enough to bring a 17th South Jersey championship to Trenton. The team made a strong bid for the State title but lost out to Asbury Park in the semi-final round.

A TENSE MOMENT IN AN INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL GAME

Boys' Swimming Team

Breaking two world records, capturing the state and national high school championships, and placing second in the Interscholastics, the Trenton High School swimming team splashed through a "wow" of a season. With the exception of one meet, which was later vindicated to Trenton High's credit, Coach "Al" Neuschaefer's proteges remained undefeated by any other high school team.

Jim Berta, Jack Mannifield, Bill Stanley, and Cliff Tomlinson, the incomparable relay team, broke the four-hundred-yard relay world scholastic record in the time, 3:47.7.

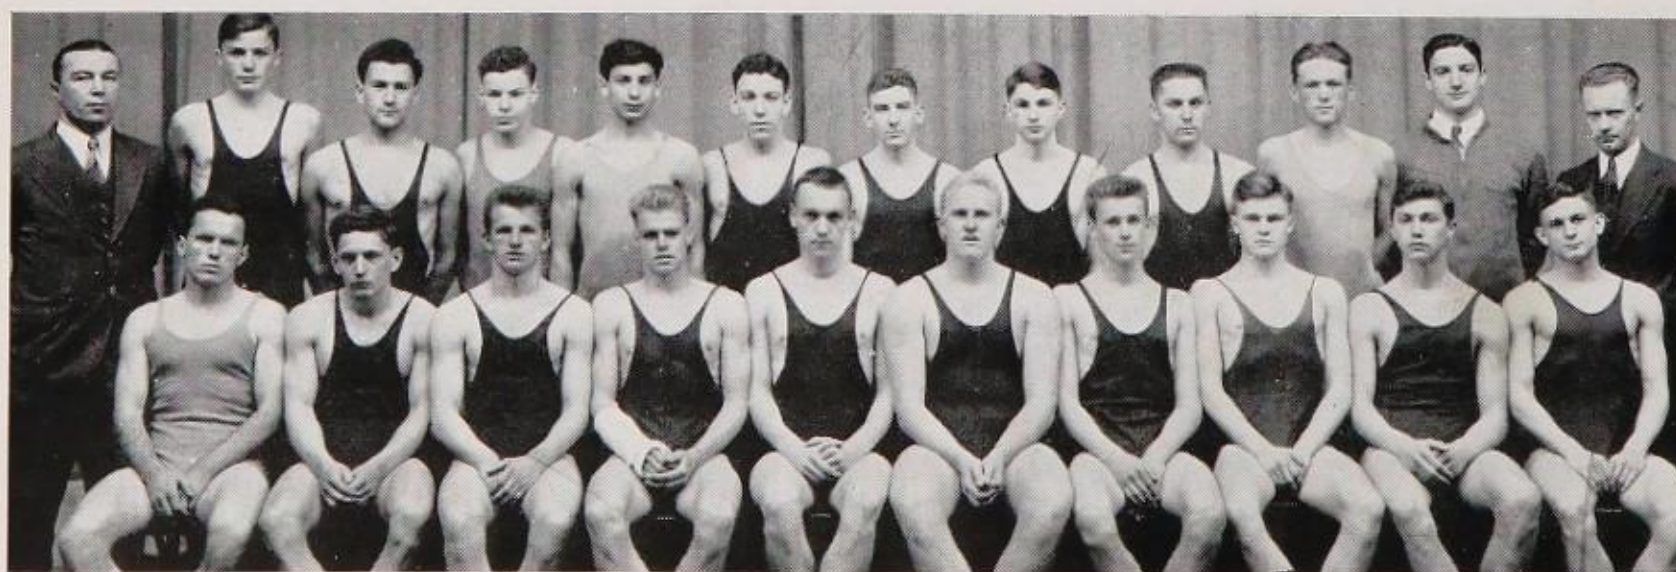

The one-hundred-fifty-yard relay team, composed of Bill Stanley, Nick Karaffa, and Jack Mannifield, broke the world's scholastic record, formerly held by last year's team of Mikovsky, Hough, and Stanley, in the state meet at Rutgers University. They lowered the time from 1:26 to 1:24.

In the national meet held in the Penn A. C. pool, Maurice Gilbert broke the meet record, held for thirty years, in the two-hundred-twenty-yard free style. The former record was 2:25; Gilbert's time was 2:23.4.

In the state meet Jack Mannifield tied the state record of 0:24.9 in the fifty-yard free style. Jack Mannifield, Cliff Tomlinson, Bill Stanley, and Maurice Gilbert (the backbone of the team), are leaving this year and must be replaced by the juniors and sophomores who have been working hard to win their places on next year's squad.

Baseball

The performance of the Trenton Central High School baseball team last year was one of the best since the sport has been in existence here. The results of a season marked by persistent effort on the part of Coach Bill Weaver and his proteges were nine wins to three losses. The three defeats, sustained at the hands of New Jersey's best scholastic teams, which were of championship calibre, included the one handed out by the Pennington Prep sluggers, who are rated with college teams.

The effect of Trenton High's "murderer's row" was felt in every game. Page, Corrado, and Dudick made up this trio, which deserves special applause for their bang-up playing. The pitching honors went to Nick Chomicki, who held the opposition to comfortably low scores. The timely hitting and brilliant base running of Bill (Hunk) Luzansky was another factor in the Red and Black's success. Teamwork, however, essential to every sport, was evident in every play made by the local diamond array. The Trenton sluggers gathered a season's total of 99 runs to the opponents' 65.

In turning these "rookies" into first class diamond men, Coach Bill Weaver did an admirable piece of work. Mr. Weaver has had much training and experience in our national pastime—training gained as a college baseball star. With some regulars from last year returning and with good material from the junior schools, we expect him to produce another great nine.
